hammam we'll never know for sure, but the spa manager tells me most guests do.

Garden state

Marrakech is also famous for its gardens, and in fact La Mamounia's own garden is an oasis of lawns and date palms standing some 20 metres tall. Not far away you'll find the Menara Gardens (Avenue de la Menara) and the Aguedal Gardens (Rue Bab Ahmer), both of which were created for the ruling >>

Escape the city in the Palmeraie Desert

If your senses are feeling overloaded, make a journey into the Palmeraie Desert, where the Atlas Mountains fill the horizon and the Terre Resort offers secluded relaxation. Enter the octagonal spa for a hammam and gommage experience, which will leave you revived and ready to return to the headiness of the city. terre.com

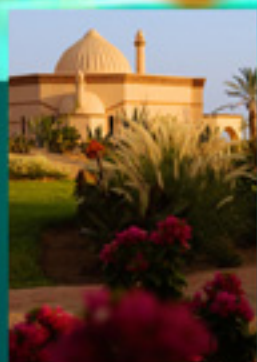

Clockwise from below left: The scent of roses, used in body soaps and scrubs, fills the air in Marrakech's hammams; Herbs and spices galore in the city souks; Tempting aromas, sights and sounds abound in Djemaa el Fna square; Colourful carpets for sale amid the rooftops
